Highlights in this release

Include "by whom" in email notification about reassigned support ticket

Help desk users rejoice (or beware)! No more stealth reassignment of support tickets. The information in these emails now include who it was who decided to ditch this job onto you.

Make Auto upload adhere to parenting rules

Most of the time this didn't really matter, but right is right. An Auto upload job will no longer run if it has a parent job which is not set to Done or Verified.

Include project info in filename with Auto delivery

The Auto delivery method now has a third file naming option: "Append details". This will include more than just the Job ID, making it easier to track from where the file originated, and also easier to re-ingest after changes using Auto upload.
